Preface

Dear Participants, dear Colleagues, dear Students & Guests,

We are excited to welcome you in Bremen to join us for this first ever International Congress for Political Theory in Germany – Political Theory in Times of Uncertainty.

Three days of intensive exchange lie ahead of us, and we could not be happier about how timely, wide-ranging and significant the topics of the panels and talks gathered in this program turned out to be. Not only will we have the chance to listen to reflections on today's stand of democracy in the face of uncertainty by our keynote speakers Yves Sintomer and Sofia Näsström. Evolving around the guiding theme of un/certainty, we will also discuss themes like citizenship, institutions, ecological collapse, solidarity or subjectivity, their consequences for political-theoretical thinking and of course different diagnoses of uncertainty as well as the problematization of this diagnosis itself.

So thank you all for your contributions!

We are looking forward to learning from, listening to and arguing with each other, setting impulses together, and enjoying our shared time here in Bremen! We wish you and all of us inspiring talks, thought-provoking discussions, long-awaited reunions as well as new encounters.

Political Theory in Times of Uncertainty

Without exaggeration, uncertainty can be described as the signature of our time. Today, a multitude of crises and challenges confronts us with uncertainty in an often existential manner: from the climate crisis to the COVID pandemic, from the crises of neoliberal hegemony and liberal democracies to the recently re-emerging conflicts about the distribution of power in global society. Not only are possible solutions uncertain, but it is also impossible to anticipate which new crises and challenges may arise soon. This situation demands the reflection by political theory and the history of political ideas, as it brings political coping strategies to their limits and casts doubt on established narratives of modern political theory.

What is needed, therefore, is an open exploration of problems beyond well-rehearsed paradigmatic positions of contemporary political theory. Uncertainty is not only a pressing problem of our time, but a constant companion of the history of political thought – sometimes more and sometimes less so. Reflecting on the problems of our time therefore not only benefits from a synchronic look at the plural theoretical offerings of the present, but also necessitates a diachronic look at the vicissitudes of the history of political ideas.

Moreover, the uncertainty of the present is unquestionably a problem that cannot be approached solely through the perspective of political theory in a narrow sense: exploratory dialogues between political theory and other sub-disciplines of political science are therefore not only appealing, but indispensable. Beyond the disciplinary perspective of political science, it is essential to include other disciplines that push beyond the narrow viewpoint of Western thought from the outset: the uncertainties we are currently confronted with are mostly global problems, and they belong to a world which is itself characterized by massive inequalities, power asymmetries, conflicts, and epistemic dissonances that not only amplify the uncertainties and insecurities, but also constitute them in the first place. Our congress takes this complex and challenging situation as an opportunity to invite a joint reflection on the problem.

During the Congress

Maps and Orientation

The Congress takes place both at the Atlantic Hotel Universum, Wiener Straße 4, 28359 Bremen, and at the lecture hall building GW1, Universitätsallee, 28359 Bremen. The latter is part of Bremen University Campus. The two venues are about 5 minutes walk from each other, so that getting from one building to the other between panels is not a problem. Snacks and drinks during the day will only be offered at the Atlantic, where also the registration takes place, while our Meet & Greet on Wednesday evening is located at the GW1.

For details on how to get from one venue to the other see the illustrations below:

Registration

Registration will be open from Wednesday at 9:00 am onwards. You can find the registration desk at the Atlantic Hotel. During the whole conference you will find somebody from the organisation team there. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to ask. Members of the organising team will be identifiable by their blue name badge.

Internet and WiFi

You have two options for accessing Wi-Fi at the Congress: Atlantic Hotel Wi-Fi or eduroam Wi-Fi, the Wi-Fi provided by many universities internationally. In case you are already registered for eduroam, your device will most likely connect automatically. If you do not have access to eduroam, you can ask for the hotel Wi-Fi during the registration process or throughout the Congress.

Meeting Time on Wednesday

On Wednesday afternoon, we reserved a time slot of 45 minutes between panels and breaks to have the chance to get together in research cooperatives or have a chat with the various publishers present during the Congress.

Meet&Greet

Join us for an informal gathering Wednesday evening starting at 7:00 PM at GW1. Come and enjoy a glass of wine, a refreshing lemonade, and some snacks while engaging in conversations and socializing with fellow congress members.

Lunch

You are invited to join us for lunch at the University of Bremen cafeteria. It is conveniently located just a 10-minute walk from the Conference Centre. The cafeteria welcomes students, teachers, and guests of the university, offering a diverse range of meal options. Whether you prefer vegan or vegetarian food or dishes with meat or fish: there is something for everyone. Additionally, there is a salad bar available, along with coffee, snacks, and sweets. To make your payment process smooth, you will receive a voucher during your registration process.

Conference Dinner

If you are an active participant of the Conference (speaker, chair, panel convener) and have registered for the dinner on Thursday evening beforehand, we are pleased to welcome you to the Restaurant Schüttinger located in the city centre of Bremen (address: Hinter dem Schütting 12-13, 28195 Bremen) at 7.30 pm on Thursday. The restaurant offers a variety of meals including vegetarian and vegan dishes. We look forward to sharing an enjoyable evening with you at the dinner. Please note that the costs for the dinner buffet will be covered by the congress, while the drinks have to be paid for individually.

Practical information

Tram, Bike, Car – Commuting in Bremen

The best way to commute in Bremen between the city centre, the airport, train station, and campus is via tram number six. To get to the Congress venue's, you get off at Universität Süd. To visit the city centre, get off at Domsheide. Tickets for the tram can be purchased online using the BSAG application on your smartphone or at the vending machines in the tram. Alternatively, you can buy tickets at the Domsheide stop.

Website BSAG

App Download

Bremen is a perfect city for biking, and you can easily rent a bike at one of the several WK-bike stations. Use the WK or Nextbike application to find the closest available bike in your surroundings. For holders of the Deutschlandticket, the first 30 minutes of bike rental are free. The usual prices are 1€ per 15 minutes.

Website WK Bike

If you come to the Congress venue by car, you can either use the parking facilities of the Atlantic Hotel (11€ / day) or one of the two parking facilities of the university (1€ / day), which are University car park Bibliothekstraße & University car park Universitätsallee. To get to the city centre, we recommend using the tram if possible, as parking there can be expensive. Nevertheless, there still are some car parks available in the centre in case public transport is not an option.

Sights, Souvenirs and Shopping – The City centre

If you want to visit historical sites in Bremen, buy souvenirs for friends and family, or send a postcard, the city centre is where you get lucky. To reach the city centre from campus, hop on tram number six and get off at Domsheide. The ride takes about 20 minutes from there. Most places of interest are within a short walking distance.

The SCHNOOR QUARTER is one of Bremen's oldest parts, characterized by narrow streets, charming little craft shops, and artisanry. You can also find small restaurants and gift shops there.

Taking a walk along SCHLACHTE offers a beautiful view of the Weser River and some picturesque old ships along its bank.

For shopping opportunities, visit OBERNSTRABE or the adjacent SÖGESTRABE. Whether you're looking for clothes, souvenirs, or a supermarket, you'll find it all there.

Bars, Cafés, restaurants – The Viertel

Take a stroll through the VIERTEL (“the quarter”), one of the most lively and bohemian quarters of Bremen. You'll find bars and cafes, pubs, and restaurants with various cuisines. If the weather is good, it is also recommended to grab a drink from one of the little shops and take a stroll along the Weser, which is right around the corner. To get to the Viertel, take Tram line 6 to the central station and transfer to Tram number 10 in the direction of Sebaldsbrück. If you get off at Sielwall, you'll be right in the beating heart of Bremen's nightlife. Below you find a few recommendations for cafes, bars, and restaurants.

THEATRO Restaurant and café at the Goethe Theatre. The menu offers fresh Mediterranean cuisine from tapas to pizza as well as a few vegan options. Goetheplatz 1-3

LAGERHAUS The Lagerhaus is a cultural centre in the heart of the VIERTEL. Its Bar is a popular place to meet for some drinks. A small menu is also offered. Schildstraße 12-19
